Online Courses

HERE ARE ELEVEN HIGHLY RECOMMENDED ONLINE COURSES THAT ARE OFFERED FOR FREE AND ARE BENEFICIAL FOR LAW STUDENTS AND LAWYERS

- Constitutional Law
- Corporate Law
- International Law
- etc.

JOIN FREE

http://www.thementorshipproject.in/

1. Harvard University's Law School Online Courses: Harvard Law School offers various free online courses on platforms like edX and HarvardX, covering subjects such as constitutional law, contract law, and human rights.
Link: https://pll.harvard.edu/subject/law

2. Yale University's Open Yale Courses: Constitutional Law: This course provides an introduction to constitutional law, exploring key concepts and landmark cases. It is available on the Open Yale Courses platform.
Link: https://www.coursera.org/yale

3. Duke University's Introduction to Intellectual Property: Offered on Coursera, this course delves into the fundamentals of intellectual property law, including patents, trademarks, copyrights, and trade secrets.
Link: https://www.coursera.org/learn/introduction-intellectual-property

4. University of Pennsylvania's Introduction to Corporate Law: This course, available on Coursera, provides an overview of corporate law, covering topics like corporate governance, shareholder rights, and mergers and acquisitions.
Link:https://www.law.upenn.edu/academics/legaleducationprograms/us-corporate-law-strategy.php

5. University of London's English Common Law: Structure and Principles: This course, available on Coursera, provides insights into the English Common Law system, its structure, principles, and historical development.
Link: https://www.london.ac.uk/courses/english-common-law-structure-and-principles

6. University of California, Berkeley's Cybersecurity for Lawyers: This course, offered on edX, focuses on the legal and policy issues arising from cybersecurity threats, equipping lawyers with knowledge to address these challenges.
Link: https://guide.berkeley.edu/graduate/degree-programs/information-cybersecurity/

7. MIT OpenCourseWare - International Law: This course, available on MIT OpenCourseWare, explores key concepts and principles of international law, including treaties, jurisdiction, and statehood.
Link: https://ocw.mit.edu/

8. University of Queensland's Critical Thinking and Problem Solving: This course, offered on edX, focuses on developing critical thinking skills to analyze complex issues, make sound judgments, and solve problems effectively, enhancing legal reasoning abilities.
Link:https://critical-thinking.project.uq.edu.au/

9. University of Michigan's Model Thinking: This course, available on Coursera, introduces students to various models that can be applied to understand complex systems and make informed decisions, which is beneficial for legal analysis and argumentation.
Link: https://www.coursera.org/learn/model-thinking

10. University of California, Berkeley's The Science of Happiness: This course, offered on edX, explores the science behind happiness and well-being, equipping law students and lawyers with strategies to enhance mental health and overall satisfaction.
Link:https://ggsc.berkeley.edu/what_we_do/online_courses_tools/the_science_of_happiness

11. Stanford University's Introduction to Logic: This course, available on Coursera, teaches the fundamentals of formal logic, critical thinking, and effective reasoning, all of which are essential skills for legal professionals.
Link: https://www.coursera.org/learn/logic-introduction

Note: While these courses are offered for free, some platforms offer the option to obtain a verified certificate for a fee. The availability of courses may vary, and it is advisable to check the course schedule and offerings on the respective platforms.

http://www.thementorshipproject.in/